The Southern Railroad made a considerable change in its schedule last Sunday, and a new train has been put on between Greenwood and Greenville, which will run every day except Sunday. The train will leave Greenwood at 7.10 a. m., making connection at Hodges with a train which leaves Abbeville at 6.50 a. m., and reaching the following places at the time named: Donalds, 7.50; Honea Path, 8.05; Belton, 8.25; Pelzer, 8.45; Piedmont, 9.00; Greenville, 9.30. At Belton connection is made with the train from Anderson which leaves here at 7.45. This train will return in the afternoon on the following schedule: Leave Greenville at 5.30 p. m.; Piedmont, 5.55; Pelzer, 6.05; Belton, 6.30; Donalds, 6.50; Hodges, 7.15; Abbeville, 7.50; and Greenwood, 7.45. At Belton the Anderson train makes connection, leaving here at 5.30 p. m., and returning at 7 p. m. This schedule enables people living between Greenwood and Anderson to spend the day in this city and return home in the afternoon. A slight change has also been made in the schedule of the regular train between Charleston, Columbia and Anderson. The train leaves here at 10.10 a. m., the same time as formerly; but it will reach Columbia at 2.50 p. m., an hour and fifteen minutes sooner than the old schedule. Returning, this train leaves Charleston at 7.30 a. m., thirty minutes later than formerly, and arrives in Anderson at 3.20 p. m.
